No. of students enrolled: 350

No. of students certified:350

No. of students certified in our institution :34

Introduction:

The workshop on Juristions of Trade Secrets was held on December 28,2019 at JKKMMRF's Annai Sampoorani Ammal College of Pharmacy. The workshop was organized by the Department of Pharmacy, and a total of 350 students participated. The purpose of the workshop was to provide attendees with an introduction to the Juristions of Trade Secrets is a formula, idea, pattern, process which is not generally known for economic advantages.. At the end of the workshop, all attendees received a certificate of completion.

Objectives:

The main objectives of the workshop were to:

- Introduce attendees to the principles and practices of qualitative research
- Provide an overview of the different types of trade secrets and how to collect and analyze them
- Introduce attendees to the use of Juristions of Trade secrets.
- Provide attendees with the opportunity to know the Juristions of Trade secrets

Participants:

The workshop was open to all students at JKKMMRF's AnnaiSampooraniAmmal College of Pharmacy, and a total of 350 students participated. The attendees represented a range of academic disciplines within the field of pharmacy, including pharmacology, pharmaceutical chemistry, and pharmacy practice. Most of the attendees had some prior experience with qualitative research, but some were new to the field.

Format:

The workshop was structured as a combination of lectures, group discussions, and hands-on exercises. The lectures were led by an experienced researcher with expertise in qualitative research and how to understand the Juristions of Trade secrets. The workshop was held over two full days, with breaks in between to allow attendees to rest and ask questions.

Content:

The workshop covered a range of topics related to qualitative research and the use of trade secrets. On the first day, attendees learned about the different types of qualitative data, including interview transcripts, focus group transcripts, and observational field notes. They also learned about the different approaches to analyzing qualitative data, including coding, memoring, and categorizing. On the second day, attendees learned how to learn trade secrets to organize and analyze their secrets.

Evaluation:

At the end of the workshop, attendees were asked to complete a short evaluation form to provide feedback on the workshop. Overall, the evaluations were very positive, with most attendees rating the workshop as "excellent" or "good." Attendees commented that the lectures were clear and well-organized, and that the hands-on exercises were helpful in providing a practical understanding of trade secrets.

Conclusion:

Overall, the workshop on juristions of trade secrets was a success. A total of 350 students participated, and all attendees received a certificate of completion. The positive feedback from attendees suggests that the workshop met its objectives and was well-received by the participants. The skills and knowledge gained from the workshop will be valuable to the students as they continue their studies and pursue careers in the field of pharmacy.

Recommendations:

Based on the evaluations and feedback from attendees, we recommend offering similar workshops in the future to continue to build capacity in trade secrets at JKKMMRF's Annai JKK Sampoorani Ammal College of Pharmacy. It may also be helpful to consider offering more advanced workshops for those who have already completed the basic workshop and are looking to further develop their skills.

ABOUT THE TOPIC

JURISDICTIONS OF TRADE SECRETS

A Jurisdiction of Trade Secrets is a formula, Pattern, physical device, idea, process, or compilation of information which is not generally known or reasonably ascertainable, by which a business can obtain an economic advantage over competitors or customers.

ADVANTAGES OF TRADE SECRET PROTECTION:

Unlimited duration-trade secrets could potentially last longer than patents (20 Years) and copyrights.

Your protection is theoretically worldwide .

No application required.

No registration cost.
